DIED IN THE BLIZZARD.

The Storm Claims Victims in the West.

LIVES LOST ON THE BLEAK PRAIRIES.

Other Serious Effects of the Cold Wave—Railroads Generally Blockaded—Much Damage by an Alabamas Cyclone.

PERISHED IN THE STORM.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 10.—Reports throughout the State show much loss of life during the storm of Sunday. The young wife of Milton Cummings, near Rushville, froze to death within 100 yards of the house. The body was found in a snow-drift after being twenty-four hours missing. At Kearney Eddie Cheseler and Steve St. Peter, 14-year-old boys, were overcome by the cold while hunting, and their bodies were found at noon in a ravine. At Chadron M. L. Lissent, a pioneer, lost his life while caring for his stock. Many others who were out in the storm are missing and are thought to be dead. Hundreds of cattle perished. Railroads are still blocked. Relief expeditions have been sent to the destitute counties.

RAGGED CRIES, S. D., Feb. 10.—The names of the young man and woman who perished on Box Elder divide in Saturday's blizzard were Grant Bay, a young ranchman, and Meta Grace, school teacher living at Sturgis, Mead County. Bay and Miss Gray left this city in the height of the blizzard against the protests of friends and it is supposed their team got away while they were looking for the road. The country is sparsely settled, and losing their way in Saturday's storm meant death. Dr. Jones and wife, of Hill City, reported lost, arrived Monday afternoon.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 10.—Reports from the north and western parts of the State indicate that the storm of Saturday and Sunday was much more severe than at first supposed. Stock has suffered severely, the loss of cattle and horses in transit being unusually severe. All the railroad lines have been seriously hampered, the Burlington being probably the most fortunate. Trains on the Union Pacific & Elkhorn are all the way from four to twenty-four hours late. General Manager Holdrege of the Burlington, who is snow-bound at Alliance, telegraphs that in that section the snow-storm was the most severe in history, compared to which the memorable blizzard of January, 1888, is only a baby.

HURON, S. D., Feb. 10.—Reports from various parts of the State concerning Sunday's wind and snow-storm indicate that the heaviest portion of the storm was in the Jim River valley, Huron being nearly the center. Little snow fell at Aberdeen and points in the northern part of the State and only a tenth of an inch at Sulphur. The fall of snow was nearly as heavy east and south as here, averaging ten inches. The wind attained a velocity of fifty miles per hour. The thermometer Monday morning was 14 degrees below zero. The snow is badly drifted and railroad cuts are packed full.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 10.—The coldest blizzard in two years reached here Sunday night and before midnight the mercury had fallen forty-four degrees, with the wind blowing at the rate of thirty miles an hour. Monday it was colder still and the velocity of the wind has not diminished. West of here in the Del Rio and Devil's River country the zero point was reached and the high wind scattered flocks and herds.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 10.—The rainfall Monday was the heaviest for the same length of time ever known here, over two inches having fallen. The Fifth ward school-house was surrounded by water, the Western & Atlantic railroad crossing covered and outdoor work was generally suspended. Two streams could plainly be seen pouring over the precipice near the point on Lookout mountain. A heavy rise in the Tennessee river is sure to follow, but there are no apprehensions of a flood. The rain is still falling.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 10.—A cyclone struck Helena Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock. A dull, roaring sound was heard and the people had only time to get to their doors when they saw a black, whirling cloud skim over the top of the hotel in the northern part of the village. It next encountered the telegraph poles, twisting them off like pipe-stems. Coming down the railroad track it laid the station-house flat on the platform and leveled the store of Thomas Davidson. C. T. and James Davidson were in the store and both were hurt about the head and P. D. Lee was hit about the body. The cyclone then lifted and passing over a three-story building struck the Helena rolling-mill, about 300 yards from the station, taking the roof off the mill and stocker case. The cloud passed on in a southeasterly direction and a report has reached here that it struck Talladega in its circuit.

HOW DEMOCRATS OPPOSE IT.

The democratic press grows hysterical in its effort to prove that Asa Malmgren

Winans, Keogh and MacBride reported favorably on the present apportionment simply because they were bitterly opposed to it? Why these gentlemen, who in the last legislature as in the present, were clearly the leaders of their party, should have lent their support to "a shameful disfigurement of the many," is hard to see. The Madison Democrats seeks to prove that their votes in favor of the apportionment bill showed their steadfast disapproval of it. Its arguments along this line are fully overturned, however, by the bit of history recalled by the State Journal. It is well known to all who watched the proceedings of the last legislature that the democrats headed by Messrs. Winans, Horn, MacBrine,

Gray and Keogh, made coalition with half a dozen republican leaders overturned the republican apportionment that had been agreed upon, and accepted the apportionment bill which was unanimously agreed upon. Of course the democrats would have made a different apportionment had they been in the majority. But that is not the point. The point is that they were so far from believing the apportionment was an "outrageous gerrymander" that they gave it their unanimous support, a fact that the democratic press will have hard work to meet.

THE FARM INSTITUTES.

Judging from recent developments the democratic hue and cry against farmers institutes was a vote-catching device pure and simple. It is now pretty definitely settled that the bill to abolish the state farmers' institutes will never emerge from the committee room. The chairman of the committee on agriculture,

Assemblyman Dawson, a La Crosse farmer, is the only member of the committee who favors the bill, the other six members, Assemblymen E. C. Smith,

Houston, Henderson, O'Connor, Chinnock and Longbotham, are opposed to it.

The farmers' institute was at the time of its introduction six years ago a distinctive Wisconsin institution; but now the institute has been adopted in New York,

Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota. Iowa and California will probably adopt it this year. An annual appropriation of $12,000 is made to carry out the farmers' institutes. This amount is expended exclusively in carrying on the work. The bulletins which are published, showing the papers read at the society, are not paid for out of the appropriation.

The free trade lures are constantly repeating as a fact that the samples of American iron plate now being shown in different parts of the country "are made from imported iron, by imported workmen, and coated with imported tin."

This downright lie was easily discovered by the United States Iran and Tin

Plate Company which states that the plate in question "are made out of American iron by American workmen, rolled into sheets by American machinery, cleaned in acid made in American chemical works, timed in vast cast in American founders by workmen of whom the majority were born in the United States."

There is a strong effort in some states to revive the whipping post for wifebeaters and those guilty of other basely offenses that have no severe penalties.

As a matter of economy this style has great advantages and it is claimed to be more effective. Little Delaware has always believed in it, and there were even some good Janeville people who fel-ly endorsed the method as they heard of J. L. Wadleigh's brutal treatment of his young wife in a Janeville hotel.

A stirring form of cross examination lately developed in Ross, is to drive the prisoner to a confession by lack of sleep.

Despatches from St. Petersburg announce that a much respected teacher named Ladislav Gusarov became a maniac under the terrible suffering thus brought on. The officials tried to extort a confession from him by restraining to madden artifices to arrest sleep, and the result was to drive the poor man mad.

At a medical banquet the other night one of the speakers, in response to a toast to his profession, while decanting upon the value of physicians as witnesses, allowed his experience to assert that "good medical experts can prove anything." He wanted to tone down his statement when it was in print, but many do not think he need greatly blame the virus inspiration.

Madison Journal—The farmers of Dane county are patiently waiting for the Madison Democrat to explain how it is that woolen goods and woolen suits and overcoats are advertised at lower prices in the columns of the democratic organ than ever before the passage of the much-abused McKinley tariff. No dodging now! Lyng does not count. This is not a political campaign.

The death of another estimable lady in Iowa is laid at the door of "faith healers."

It seems about time some kind of a lymph was invented to prevent irresponsible enthusiasts from preying on the susceptibilities of weak-minded and nervous persons.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

Remarkable Statement of Personal Danger and Providential Escape.

The following story—who is attracting wide attention from the press, is as remarkable that we cannot excuse ourselves if we do not lay it before our readers, entire.

To the Editor Post-Caster (N. Y.) Democ.

Sir:—On the first day of June, 1881, I lay at my residence in the city, and myself, my wife, my friends and visitors for rest. I hardly knew the agony I had suffered, for words can never decribe it. And yet, if a few years previous anyone had told me that I was to be brought so low, and so terribly frightened, I could not have believed it.

I had always been unusually strong and healthy, and weighed over 200 pounds and hardly knew, in my own experience, what pain or sickness were. Very many people who will read this statement relate at times that they are unusually frightened and cannot account for it. They feel dull pains, and a sense of bodily weakness and want of energy, but cannot understand why.

I was exceedingly hungry one day and entirely without appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relatives madly which had fastened itself upon me first but probably I had taken a cold which would soon pass away. Shortly after that I noticed a heavy, and at times, neuralgic pain in one side of my head, and as it

THEY WANT HIS MONEY.

Proceedings Against J. H. Jones
In Justice Court.

DEFENDANT ON THE STAND.

He Says that He Sold His Stock and Sent A. N. Jones' Note to Chicago in Order to Protect His Other Creditors—Liabilities Over $5,000.

J. H. Jones was before Court Commissioner M. S. Frischard to-day on supplementary proceedings begun by E. M. Hyzer for Reid, Murdock & Fisher. Mr. Jones was brought into court at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. T. B. Nolan appeared in his behalf, and asked for an adjournment for one week, claiming that his client had had no time to consult with an attorney, and was not ready for the proceeding to go on. E. M. Hyzer combatred the adjournment, and the court commissioner denied the motion for a week's adjournment, but adjourned the case until 10 o'clock this morning, the defendant being released on bonds of $1000. Fred R. Jones and Archie Reid being the securities.

When the case was called this morning Mr. Jones was put upon the stand. T. B. Nolan, an attorney for Jones objected, saying that the court had no jurisdiction on account of the affidavit not describing the property specifically. There was a general allegation that he had more. There was not a description of any account or specific assets, only a general allegation. As far as the money was concerned, however, he was willing that the examination should go on.

"I'm inclined to think that is sufficient," said the judge, "and the objection was overruled."

E. M. Hyzer, attorney for Reid, Murdock & Fisher, questioned the witness in regard to certain promissory notes, payable to him.

Two of them, the witness said, were in the Merchants' & Mechanics' Saving's Bank, and one in the store. The first two were given to a clerk in settlement of an account, and the other was transferred to A. N. Jones with the stock in the store. All of the accounts, good, bad and indifferent, amounted to between $1500 and $2000. They went with the stock, in payment for which a note for $4,000 was given to the witness by A. N. Jones. The note was dated January 31, and was due on demand. This note is now in the possession of the defendant's brother, Frank Jones, of Chicago, to whom the defendant sent it on the advice of his attorney. One half of the note, the defendant stated, belonged to him, the balance having reverted to A. N. Jones, in consideration of borrowed money.

Witness valued the merchandise in the store at about $2,500, and the accounts, good and bad, as between $2,000 and $2,500. He had on January 31 about $300, $115 of which was in the Merchant & Mechanics bank and was garnished by J. T. Wilcox. The balance he gave to his wife. He now had no money in anybody's possession.

Mr. Jones said further, that he sent the note signed by A. N. Jones, to his brother, Frank Jones, in order to protect his other creditors.

Attorney Hyzer asked for an order appointing George Hanthorn as receiver and the order was granted, bonds being fixed at $2500. He further requested an order calling for the production of the note and that J. H. Jones stand committed until the note be produced. This was also granted.

"Are you willing to apply that note on the judgment?" asked Attorney Hyzer.

"Yes, I meant to do that all the time," said Mr. Jones, "but I wanted to be fair with my other creditors."

"Do you intend to leave the state?"

"Not present, but I expect to go to Chicago about the first of May."

"To go into business?"

"Yes sir, I have an agreement with W. H. Leonard, but not in writing."

Mr. Jones stated further that when he was in Chicago last week he had an appointment with Reid, Murdock & Co., at 5 o'clock, but he did not keep it as he had to catch the train for home. He left with Mr. Leonard to go and see them for him.

The statement of liabilities as read by Mr. Jones was approximately as follows:

A. N. Jones	$2,000
Reid, Murdock & Co.	1,500.00
Mercantile & Mechanics	1,000.00
N. K. Fairbank & Co.	50.00

MASKED IN CONCORDIA HALL.

Hundreds Found the Annual Ball a Time of Festivity.

Concordia hall was filled to the doors last evening. But Concordia Hall is always full when the annual masque ball is given, so this was nothing unusual.

The costumes last night were many and various. There were delegates from nearly every other nation on the face of the globe. Then there were fancy costumes. Some of the dancers did not impersonate anything. They were moved with the simple desire to look funny and their favorite garb seemed to be a linen duster and a long nosed mask.

At 11 o'clock the grand march was called and a few moments later all masks were doffed. There was a moment of surprise, then Smith's orchestra struck up again and the dances were once more in motion. It was 3 o'clock before the strains of "Home Sweet Home" sounded through the hall and the tired revelers dispersed and wended their way home.

Dr. Bell's Cough Syrup is fast taking the place of all the old fashioned cough remedies. It is a tonic and for the throat disease it is invaluable. Price 25 cents.

WANT GATES AND FLAGSTAFFS
City Fathers Strive To Make Street Crossings Safer.

Very little business was transacted by the common council last evening except what was outlined in The Gazette. Mr. Maxwell, representing the Milwaukee Bridge Company, was present, and submitted plans and specifications for the proposed new bridge at Monterey. These were read to the council, and on recommendation of the bridge committee through Alderman Thoroughgood, they were adopted, and the clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of the same, in the aldermen voting in favor of the plans except Alderman Childs, Alderman Childs, while favoring the new bridge, was strongly of the opinion that the portion of the old bridge known as the "Howe truss" was in good condition, and would be of good service for at least fifteen years. He favored building only a portion of the new bridge, thus making the truss bridge do more service, and saving considerable cost to the city. An unimportant amendment to the H. A.
